

Importance of Self-reliance

---

It is of great importance for the young that they accustom themselves from their earliest years to trust as little as possible to others for what they want. They should learn to put on their own clothes, to wash themselves, to take their food with their own hands and not expect mothers or servants do these things for them. They should learn to read and write and store their minds with knowledge so that they can earn their own bread when they go into the world.

Title: – Importance of Self-reliance

Precis: – Young person should learn to rely on themselves from their childhood so that when they grow up, and enter life they should be able to earn their living.