Let's build Word Bridges!

Once you have studied this word list, work with blank sheets, sketch pens, a thesaurus and use your wildest imagination to build association charts (like the one done for you below) for as many words from the above clusters. Try and link some of the words in the clusters together. Use broken lines where the relationship is contextual or far fetched or that of antonyms. So go ahead... build Word Bridges and have fun!

Explanation:

'Embarrassment' means 'shame or abashment'. It can be associated with emotional state (the association being that of 'meaning'). 'Disembarrassment' is the opposite of 'embarrassment' thus it has a broken line association with 'embarrassment'

Let's build Word Bridges!

Once you have studied this word list, work with blank sheets, sketch pens, a thesaurus, and use your wildest imagination to build association charts (like the one done for you below) for as many words from the above clusters. Try and link some of the words in the clusters together. Use broken lines where the relationship is contextual or far fetched or that of antonyms. So go ahead... build Word Bridges and have fun!

The word 'Foster' can be used in different contexts. 'To Foster' is to nurture. Now the word nurture can be used for cattle (rear), for children (parent), for a family (raise), for a project/concept/idea (bring up). Thus 'foster' will have broken line associations to all of the meanings of nurture. 'Foster' is often used as a proper noun. It is a last name and a brand name. 'To foster' is to take things forward

Similarly, you can make Word Bridges for other words starting from the alphabet F
